PUBLIC VIDEO SCREENING LICENCE

APPLICATION FORM

PROUDLY REPRESENTING

LIONSGATE

WHAT IS THE PUBLIC VIDEO SCREENING LICENCE (PVSL)?

Under UK copyright law, screening films outside the cinema or home for entertainment generally requires a licence from the copyright owner or their representatives. Filmbankmedia offers such a licence. It's called the Public Video Screening Licence (PVSL). It permits schools to legally exhibit films to their students and staff.

For example, our PVSL allows schools to organise ad hoc screenings such as for wet weather days or lesson replacement.

PVSL is an annual low-cost licence that allows its holder to organise unplanned or background-style screenings.

Our PVSL runs from the 1st April until the 31st March each year and schools only need to submit a report of their screenings to Filmbankmedia every quarter.

Please note that Into Film members (formerly Filmclub) must also acquire a PVSL should they wish to screen a film from one of our participating studios and distributors.

DOES YOUR SCHOOL HAVE THE RIGHT LICENCE TO SCREEN FILMS?

If you screen films from the major Hollywood studios and you have a Public Video Screening Licence (PVSL), the answer is yes!

Over 20,000 schools across the U.K. already have a PVSL. Filmbankmedia has a rich and diverse range of content and is proud to be able to offer films from all 6 major Hollywood studios. So, whatever your screening needs, Filmbankmedia is your one-stop licensor for the leading Hollywood studios, making it easier for you to access content for your school.

The Department of Education in England have acquired a PVSL on behalf of state-funded schools. If you are not a state-maintained school in England, you need to acquire your own licence. All independent schools in the UK are not covered. If you are unsure, please check with your local authority or contact the Centre for Education & Finance Management (CEFM) for more information - Ph: 01494 836 231 / E: pvsl@cefm.co.uk.

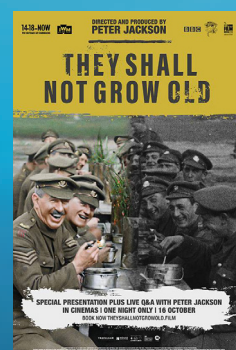

For more information on copyright law, please refer to the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988 or seek legal advice.

To acquire a Public Video Screening Licence (PVSL), please complete the form on the back and return it to:

BENEFITS OF THE PVSL

- Legally screen films for a small annual fee.
- Screenings can be as frequent as needed.
- Over 13,000 films to choose from.
- Access a rich library of films: latest releases, all-time classics, drama, comedy, thriller, action, adventure, sci-fi, world cinema and many more.
- License titles from the following leading Hollywood and independent studios and distributors:

- No need to buy new copies of films, simply use the DVDs or Blu-rays which you have already purchased or rented from legitimate UK outlets. However, the screening must be of the whole film without cutting or editing.
- Easily submit quarterly reports to Filmbankmedia in one click, by visiting www.filmbankmedia.com/licences/pvsl/pvsl-quarterly-reporting-form/

WHAT THE PVSL DOESN'T COVER

Please note that our licence doesn't cover the following:

- Screening of films from streaming services e.g. Netflix or Amazon.
- Scheduled screenings open to non-students and staff.
- Ticketed screenings or fundraising events.
- Advertising of the screenings outside the screening venue including promotional media such as brochures, social media, or website.
- Live music and live performance or reproduction of any intellectual property from the movies are not permitted.

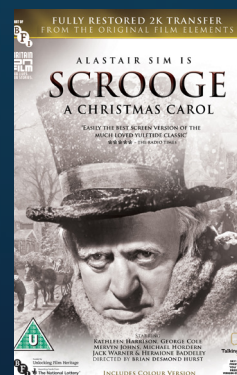

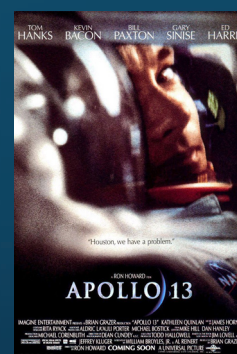

For the full PVSL Terms and Conditions, please visit www.filmbankmedia.com/pvslterms

If you are interested in organising a planned event with advertising, we can help.

Filmbankmedia offers a selection of licences, other than the PVSL, which allow you to set up scheduled screenings, charge an entrance fee, and advertise your events.
